

Guerrilla Girls in Rauschenberg Gallery

Florida SouthWestern State College's Bob Rauschenberg Gallery presents 'Guerrilla Girls: Rattling Cages Since 1985,' a site-specific exhibition and newly-commissioned interactive installation from January 17-March 23.

An internationally-renowned feminist advocacy and art collective, the Guerrilla Girls maintain anonymity while confronting and addressing systemic problems of gender and racial parity in the art world. They have designed a participatory chalkboard installation for visitor 'complaints' and covered the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery floor-to-ceiling with an immersive selection of the group's most notable public art/protest poster campaigns.

There is an opening reception January 17, 7-8:30pm, following a lecture by FSW Humanities professor, Dr. Wendy Chase at 6pm. Both events are free.

The Bob Rauschenberg Gallery at FSW is located at 8099 College Pkwy SW, building L, on FSW campus. The gallery is open Mon-Fri 10am-4pm & Sat 11am-3pm. Admission is free. For information, call 489-9313.
