GULFSHORE CULTURE

A PIONEER AND LEADER though he was, artist Robert Rauschenberg was not shy about also being a student and partner. Through May 15, his eponymous gallery at Florida SouthWestern State College exhibits Rauschenberg & Albers: Box vs. Square, a comparison of Rauschenberg's work with that of color theorist Josef Albers, whom he referred to as his most important teacher. April

1-19, the Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center's The Influence of Rauschenberg conveys Rauschenberg's lasting impact through pieces of his "work family" and collaborators, Jonas Stirner and Lawrence Voytek. And at the center April 22, The Music of John Cage presents the music of the composer who claimed great friendship with and inspiration from Rauschenberg.
