New & Hot 2017: Arts

Here's a chronological rundown of our top 19 culture picks.

FluZUsic/FLUXUS MUSIC exhibit at the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery at FSW
KIRSTEN PETTIFOR

FluZUsic/FLUXUS MUSIC* exhibit at the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery at FSW, through Dec. 9

This show is described as an “interactive and immersive installation” and pairs the works of visual artists Yoko Ono, Geoffrey Hendricks and Alison Knowles with that of composer and musician Philip Corner. If you’re not familiar with the ’60s-born global art movement of Fluxus, know that its artists—which include painters, poets, designers, musicians, dancers and more—aim to blur the line between art and life. Just think out-there, avant-garde and experimental.
